Uganda Trip- Late on Sunday 4th July I returned to Toormore after a 2 week trip to Luwero in Uganda. I went along with 10 volunteers from West Cork to work with a small NGO called The Healthy Vine Trust. They are mainly involved in improving drinking water supplies, malaria prevention and education. The group ranged in age from students to grandparents and approximately half men & women. I was expecting to see hungry children, flies and a dry scrubby landscape. Instead it was smiling happy faces and a lush green landscape. We were treated by everybody like long lost friends, but behind this we also saw people dying of AIDS and children suffering from malaria, cholera and yellow fever. Malaria is by far the biggest killer in Africa especially in children under 10. Simple things like better hygiene around the home and education on the causes, helps to cut down the death rate. All the money the group had collected here will be used for practical things like boring wells, supplying mosquito nets, improving school buildings and paying field workers, who travel around the villages. Most grateful thanks to the people of this area who contributed over €3,000. There is a great need. I can assure you that this will all go to the right places. Richard Lynch
